Amidst the Alberta Emerald Awards, which is an annual event, Strathmore High School has submitted under the legacy award category for youth.

Cole Hintz, who teaches at Strathmore High School and oversees the greenhouse project, explained the Alberta Emerald Foundation recognizes the contributions of businesses, individuals, institutions, and more towards environmental sustainability.

"There is a financial amount attached to the award, but there is also some cool stuff that they do through their website. They do short documentaries on each award winner as well," he said. "With that, comes the ability to tell our story and to further the impact of the project that was as well."

Hintz added being selected as finalists for an Emerald Award is not the only thing Strathmore High School students are looking forward to over the course of the spring and summer.

He said Flowing Springs Permaculture and Soil Health has been offering a free community course through which there is intent to develop a co-designed community space around the greenhouse.

With the help of students and volunteers, we are actually going to be planting and constructing that area to one of the designs," he said. "We are also going to be building our off-grid solar system this year, so there are a couple of students who have started on that during their lunch hours."

Also taking place this year, will be the unveiling of a sign designed for the Strathmore High School Greenhouse by Phoenix Signs, showcasing all of the donors and community partners who have been instrumental in establishing the greenhouse.

Since its development, Hintz said several community groups have already gotten involved with horticulture within the greenhouse, including elementary and junior high schools, as well as a local Connect group.

Should the Strathmore High School team be successful in achieving their Emerald Award, the intent is to use the prize money to help finance pollinator gardens, pathways and landscaping around the greenhouse.

"It has been great to have a real-world application for some of these ideas around passive solar (energy), food production and just having community groups be able to come into and utilize this space, whether it is December, January, February – it has been really neat to be able to utilize that space year- round," said Hintz.

The winners of the Alberta Emerald Awards will be announced June 7. For those who are interested in learning more about the greenhouse, or potentially getting involved, they may do so via the Strathmore High School Community Greenhouse Facebook page, or by getting in contact with the school.

Strathmore Easter egg hunt returns

IOHN WATSON

Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

After going on hiatus due to COVID-19 concerns, Strathmore's annual Easter egg hunt is back and is expecting to be highly anticipated.

According to Hayley Poirier, who spoke on behalf of Remax/Key, folks who are interested in participating may want to show up early to get themselves a good spot.

"What we do is we cordon off an area at Kinsmen Park and then we put out all sorts of Easter candy for the audience," she said. "We have two areas; one that is for the little ones, being five and under, and the other is for kids over five years old."

Poirier explained that at 11 o'clock sharp on April 8, the whistle blows and kids are allowed to race to find their share of candies throughout the park.

Remax/Key has hosted the event in previous vears, prior to the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, and is excited to be finally bringing it back for the town.

"We have an amazing group of 10 sponsors that came forward. Some of them donated prizes, some of them donated candy, some of them donated money," said Poirier. "Because of them, we were able to put together a really, really great Easter egg hunt. We also had Canadian Tire donate two bikes for prizes as well."

She explained the Remax/Key team will not be surprised if upwards of 600 or more kids show up with their parents in tow to participate in the hunt.

With roughly 2,000 pieces of candy scattered throughout the park, there will be enough for everyone to at least find something before the event area is scoured of candy.

"Everybody has been wanting to get back out to events again, especially an outdoor event like this one," said Poirier. "It is really fun to have a family event that just gets everybody out to enjoy the fresh air."

Also taking place as part of the event is an Easter bonnet contest which will be judged on site at 11:15 a.m. There will be three age categories with prizes up for grabs, as well as something for everyone who participated.

The Easter egg hunt and bonnet competition are free for everyone who is interested and does not require any prior registration to attend.

It is also not weather dependent and will be going ahead on April 8, largely regardless of temperature or snowfall.

SWCC seeking new executive director

JOHN WATSON

Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

The Strathmore Wheatland Chamber of Commerce (SWCC) is looking for a new executive director in the immediate future and is currently accepting applications.

Scott Silva, who currently holds the position, said the SWCC is looking to introduce their new Executive Director during their upcoming annual general meeting.

"Throughout this meeting, we are looking to bring on our new executive director," he said. "The job posting has now gone live."

Silva has been with the Chamber for a little over three years and has held the position of Executive Director for nearly 18 months.

During his tenure, the SWCC has more than doubled in size and is ambitious to continue their growth moving forward.

Qualifications and qualities the chamber is wants to come out here and make a difference every day that they are able to."

Though the position is not a full-time roll, Silva added in time it will come with a tremendous amount of public recognition.

He explained the team is looking for someone who is eager to jump in right out of the gate and wanting to have a positive impact for the local business community.

"What you are going to find as executive director, is that you are involved in so many different levels of people's lives, from small businesses to medium, and large," he said. "When you start to see the response and the difference that you can make in these businesses just by picking up a phone, answering their questions or putting them in touch with a resource, it is amazing."

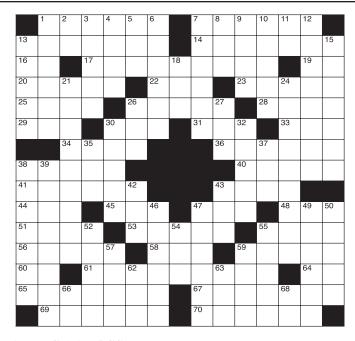

As the window is open, the SWCC is currently taking applications and according to Silva, has already received a few.

The SWCC will be taking applications until though Silva did not specify an exact date - no later than a week prior to the AGM meeting, which is scheduled to take place on April 28. Details for both how to apply for the position as executive director of the SWCC, as well as information about how to attend the AGM either in person or virtually can be found online.

Icing a season with a win

MELISSA PICHE Times Contributor

Brooke Parker and the Strathmore Ice Flares U16B ringette team finished the 2022-2023 season with a banner win and fifth place showing at provincials.

"It was a really magical year, and a lot of fun," said Parker of the season.

The Ice Flares won three silver medals in away tournaments over the season and took gold after defeating Edmonton Adrenaline in Strathmore's annual Laurie Morton-Ruppe Memorial Tournament held on Jan. 27-29.

"(This team is) fantastic, a real fun group of girls that came from five different teams. A couple from Rockyford, a couple from 16B, 14A and 14C," said Parker, explaining that the team consisted of players from a number of different previous teams and age divisions. "It was crazy how they bonded and supported each other."

Most recently, the Ice Flares took part in the provincial championship March 17-19 in Medicine Hat.

"We were in the hardest pool going into provincials," said Parker, a pool which included the very tough Medicine Hat team. "They were a strong team that in turn made us a better team."

After provincials the team wasn't quite done their season yet – they still had a chance at the Zone banner on the weekend of March 25-27.

Tabling of the 2023 Federal Budget

FROM THE OFFICE OF MARTIN SHIELDS

Martin Shields, Member of Parliament for Bow River released the following statement on the tabling of the 2023 Federal Budget.

"Today, the Liberal government tabled yet another inflation-fueling budget that will add billions to the national debt and do little to lower the cost of living for Canadians.

"For over a year, the NDP-Liberal coalition agreement has remained in place promising billions in program spending and achieving few results. Rather than supporting "the middle class and those working hard to join it" as the Liberals touted, their policies have led to a disappearance of the middle class. "Across Canada, gas, grocery, and housing prices remain stubbornly high, the carbon tax continues to hurt families and farmers alike, and rising taxes mean Canadians are taking home less money from each paycheque. Our Agriculture industry continues to be ignored and energy industry vilified. Canadians are out of money, and the Liberals are out of ideas.

The immune system in our bodies can be boosted by the following: eating healthily, maintaining a healthy body weight, exercising regularly, not smoking, limiting alcohol consumption, getting a good night's sleep, keeping stress levels down, washing hands often throughout the day and last but certainly not least....get vaccinated.

The terms dementia and Alzheimer's are often thought to be the same and used interchangeably. But there is a difference. Dementia is a general term referring to symptoms of impaired memory, thinking, reasoning and behaviour. Alzheimer's is just one of many types of dementia.

There is a medical term for everything. Some are simple and others are a real mouthful. Here's one....sphenopalatine ganglioneuralgia. What does it mean? It's a term used for that, fortunately, short-lived, uncomfortable pain you feel when you take a big gulp of a cold liquid, slushy beverage or a big mouthful of ice cream. An easier term to describe it? Brain freeze.

The Mediterranean Diet, full of fresh fruits, vegetables, fish and olive oil always seems to top the list of "Best Diets". One other advantage of this diet for women of child-bearing age is they have a lower risk of developing pregnancy complications. To reinforce the golden rules for a healthy pregnancy...don't smoke, no alcohol and eat Mediterranean.

Communities in Bloom resumes annual spring workshop

JOHN WATSON

Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

Communities in Bloom is gearing up for the upcoming gardening season and invited local community members to a free workshop to discuss gardening and plant husbandry.

According to past Communities in Bloom Chair Rob Pirie, the workshop is a return to an annual habit which aims to help people to know how to better care for their plants, as well as those in the community.

"We have two members of the town coming to talk about fire blight, how we can prevent it, and what can be done about it; we have someone from Eagle Lake coming for a brief talk, and then somebody from Eagle Lake Landscaping," said Pirie. "Then, our feature speaker is Cynthia Pohl, and she is coming from Red Deer to talk about the reason we need to increase pollinators and how we can bring about an increase of pollinators inside our community."

The event, which took place April 1 in the Strathmore Municipal Library, was free to attend and offered free seeds, coffee and cookies to those who came out.

For the occasion, the library also put out a display of their available gardening tools available to rent out over the spring and summer.

"I think the impact of the workshop is always positive. It is tough to measure, but one of the pillars of Communities in Bloom is to provide education," said Pirie. "We felt this is a very worthwhile thing for us to continue to do on a yearly basis. We have an opportunity to provide some information and free seeds."

Though Strathmore will not be evaluated again this year by Communities in Bloom, it certainly is not a reason to suddenly abandon the maintenance of local plants.

"We do not do it on a yearly basis because it would be Pirie added he believes it an obligation of the Communities in Bloom committee to work with the Strathmore community and the town to provide information regarding the maintenance of local flora and keeping the town looking its exhausting, so we would wear out our community, and it is also expensive," said Pirie. "We are not doing it this year, and it will be up to the committee to decide if we are going to do it next year. This year, we will be focussing on other things not focused on in the evaluation."

WSA spring programming kicks off

IOHN WATSON

Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

The Wheatland Society of Arts (WSA) is excited to be rolling out their spring to summer brochure, which is packed full of programming for the next several months.

WSA Program Coordinator Emmeline Keeling said there are a host of different activities which are available to choose from, so there will be something for everyone to come out and try.

"I think we've got a lot of really exciting things coming up here. We've got a lot of spring-themed things, as well as a lot of summer things," she said. "We've got some really exciting pottery classes and hopefully our new upcoming pottery studio (will be) here very soon; we've got our own wine and paint classes which are coming up, (and) we're continuing our free family paint classes."

The spring and summer brochure includes classes running from April through August, and includes activities such as needle felting, a palette knife watercolour workshop, encaustic painting, batik, wood carving, byzantine weave bracelet making, and a host of designated youth activities, among others.

Pricing will vary depending on the class, though there are a number of free options available for those who are looking for a family activity which won't require any investment.

Free activities will be taking place all through Senior's Week in June, as well as the free family paint nights taking place every Saturday throughout the brochure.

"We also have some really low-cost use programming and other programming classes as well, so if budget is at all an issue, we can make it work," said Keeling. "The takeaway from the classes varies from person to person, but for adults, it is just a nice time to wind down and relax from a stressful day. I have had a mother tell me she comes

Though some classes will be restricted in numbers based on available materials and tools, others will take as many people as the WSA studio can hold.

Keeling reported occasionally, as many as 25 people may turn out to participate in a class for an evening.

Wheatland West joins stair climb for cancer

JOHN WATSON

Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

Members from the Wheatland West Fire Department have committed to the challenge of climbing Brookfield Place in Calgary later this summer to raise money for cancer research.

Completing the challenge will require the ascent of 1,370 steps across 57 floors to the top, all while having donned their boots, air packs and helmets.

The efforts of participating firefighters will largely go towards Wellspring Alberta, in order to support the families of cancer victims.

"As long as you are a firefighter, you can join. You can also challenge the chief if you raise a certain amount - I believe it is $5,000," said Silke Stubbe, speaking on behalf of the Wheatland West Fire Department. "It is for both volunteer and career firefighters. I have heard about it before and I thought it was kind of cool."

Stubbe added as a team, Wheatland West is aiming to raise $8,000 for the cause prior to the event in June. Thus far, the team has brought together approximately $5,800.

Kyle McKay, who is also a member of the Wheatland West department, will be joining Stubbe in the climb. He explained he has a personal motivation for wanting to get involved.

"My grandfather was diagnosed with Hodgkin's Lymphoma on Christmas Eve. That is kind of where my motivation stems from," he said. "He is currently fighting his battle, and it is a matter of time for him. I am doing this for him and for other people battling cancer and their families."

Kyle McKay takes the lead during a training exercise at the Wheatland West Fire hall. Member firefighters are training to complete a stair climb of the tallest building in Calgary in June.

This will be the first occasion at which Stubbe and McKay will be participating, and the ninth such overall that has been hosted in Calgary.

"(Cancer) is everywhere, and part of why I think we both do it is just to get help for the people who are not necessarily suffering with cancer, but also the family members because it is just as hard for them," said Stubbe.

The Wheatland West team has been training since January for the climb and will continue to do so multiple times per week in order to be prepared.

The team is currently working to spread the word via their social media channels as well as via word of mouth to collect donations.

For those who are interested in donating and supporting the cause, Whe-Stubbe added she also has a personal atland West can be reached via their

Curling season a success

MELISSA PICHE Times Contributor

As the last rock was thrown at the men's bonspiel last month, it once again signaled the end of the curling season.

"(It was a) really good season.," said Ken Shackleton, president of the Strathmore and District Curling Club.

With close to 300 active members, Shackleton is confident that the number will continue to rise to pre-COVID levels. While that the number is still down about 30 per cent, with the introduction of new programs, the club remains optimistic to draw new members.

already successful curling club is the Sterling League. Sterling involves two players only and the teams play six ends and only throw six rocks ... and no sweeping! In a regular game of curling, there are four players, eight rocks and eight ends.

"There is no sweeping, which is one of the things that make it popular," said Shackleton. "The typical standard curling game lasts about two hours, but a Sterling game is over in about an hour. A lot of people expressed interest, so we'll probably expand next year."

Member Mike Molnar has expressed an interest in starting a mixed doubles league. More re-The newest addition to the search needs to be done on the exact details of the game, but essentially, it's two players and five rocks. This league would require sweeping, so after you throw your rock, you have to get up and sweep your own rock, which can be quite a challenge to say the least.

The curling club also hosts a learn to curl clinic every year.

"In years past, we had just one evening, but this year we decided to run it every night for a week," said Shackleton.

The clinic is run in early October when the ice goes in, prior to but leagues starting up.

"We had a number of people come every day," said Shackleton. "It was very popular, so I think we'll try that again."

The board starts their first planning meeting in May and another one in August to prepare for the upcoming season. The board works diligently to try to make the season as much fun as possible for each league.

"We do everything we can to encourage people to continue to come back," said Shackleton. "Of course, we are always looking for new members and new curlers that's where the learn to curl week come into play."

The public is invited to the AGM on April 26 at 7 p.m. at the curling rink and there are some board positions opening up.

Standard Fire hosts 4-H Skills for Life

JOHN WATSON

Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

Near the end of March, the Standard Fire Department hosted members from the Crowfoot 4-H Multi Club Skills for Life program for a tour of the fire hall.

Throughout the tour, the Skills for Life kids were taught by Fire Chief Mark Duguay and his team about the importance of giving back to their local community and being actively involved.

Skills for Life is a program which operates throughout the year, focussing on helping kids learn about and develop skills they can use as they grow into young adults.

Project Leader, Connie Harder said 4-H members and their parents were taught about how volunteer firefighters respond to a 911 call and how the dispatch system works.

"The big takeaway is that the members in these small communities are not paid," said Harder. "They are volunteers and when those tones go off because you are having an emergency, they stop whatever they are doing so that they can respond to that tone. This was something very valuable for our kids to learn - the sacrifice that these volunteers make."

Information included in the tour also detailed costs incurred when fire engines are deployed, equipment costs and maintenance, and how many hours volunteer firefighters dedicate to the cause annually.

Harder added she believes it was an excellent experience for the kids to get the chance to understand what goes on behind the scenes and develop a sense of perspective regarding what it takes to be a firefighter.

A part of the tour which she said resonated with the kids was seeing a hot water station inside a fire truck.

"When these fire fighters are on a call, they can be out there for 12 -16+ hours at a time," said Harder. "Often, they are called out in the worst weather conditions. So, they are hungry, they are cold and they need hydration."

With this hot water and food compartment, they can make themselves a cup of soup, grab a granola bar and coffee. They do this so they don't have to leave the scene to be well."

Currently, there are 27 youth involved in the Crowfoot 4-H Multi Club. Of these, eight are a part of the Skills for Life Program.

Skills for Life kids are allowed to choose activities they are interested in learning more about, and it becomes the responsibility of project leaders to make the connections necessary for the kids to be introduced to new skills and activities.

Another skill the kids were previously introduced to was how to change a tire, for which Skills for Life partnered with Ok Tire for the demonstration.

"They taught them how to change a tire manually, where to find a spare, how to use a jack, and what the air tools would work like if they were to do it professionally," said Harder.

inclusive to everybody," she said.

Current goals for the campground include exposure, to let the community know it will be up and running in the immediate future, as well as to renovate the grounds.

"We just want to connect with everybody and just bring people out, whether they want to camp, whether they just want to set up for the day and have a picnic, it is just a matter of letting the community know that we are open to having everybody just come out," said Carriere. "We are going to be open regardless, and then we will be continuing to do renovations and upgrades throughout the summer. We are not going to let that process prevent us from opening, but we definitely have lots of ideas and things that we want to upgrade and add to." The immediate focus, she explained, will be on the camp store and office space, to help better welcome people to the grounds, as well as to offer essentials such as ice cream, groceries and activities for kids.

ARTS ON 817 PRESENTS John Reischman & the Jaybirds

Now under the name, Wheatland Shores Campground, the site is now being operated by Cara and Ryan Carriere, who also own Rocking R Guest Ranch.

"When the county was looking for a new leaser, we just figured that it was a perfect fit with the business that we are already operating, and our main goal here at Rocking R Guest Ranch was to be more open to community and events," she said. "The campground is a perfect fit for that. One of the biggest things that drew us to it was the fact that they (Wheatland County) wanted it open to the public."

Carriere explained the campground, once open, will be available for people to occupy sites, rent boats and interact with the camp store.

In total, there are roughly 100 camp sites at the location. Of these, Carriere said 40 would be set aside for seasonal rentals, with the rest available for nightly and weekly bookings.

"It is not only a seasonal camp anymore. We do offer that for sure, but we just want it to be more

Eagle Lake Campground closed its doors after 30 years of operation in September 2022, after making the announcement the month before.

Carriere said the goal is to have the campground open for May 1. More information is available online or by reaching out to contact Rocking R Guest Ranch.

The Liberal war on work

MARTIN SHIELDS Member of Parliament Bow River Riding

The Liberal Government tabled the 2023 Budget last week and we are seeing more of the same. More inflation-fueling spending announcements, more marketing and sloganeering, with few results achieved for Canadians.

Eight years of this government and gas, grocery, and housing prices have more than doubled. But this government continues to insist on running deficits, further increasing inflation, and raising taxes on Canadians. This year's budget deficit will sit at over $43 billion. That's over $4,200 per family.

On April 1, the carbon tax is going up again. Doing little to slow emissions, the carbon tax has only increased the burden Canadian families are carrying - be it parents driving to work to put food on the table or taking their kids to soccer practice. The carbon tax raises the price of everything - and no one stands to benefit but the government. Canada's Food Price Report 2023 predicts that a family of four will spend up to $1,065 more on food alone this year, totaling more than $16,000 and the carbon tax makes that price go even higher. The Parliamentary Budget Officer shows the carbon tax will cost the average family between $402 and $847 in 2023, even after the so-called "rebates." The ripple effect of the carbon tax seeps into everything Canadian families pay for.

The Minister of Finance claims this budget is exercising "fiscal restraint" – despite the fact the deficit is running $10 billion higher than projected just a few months ago, with no plans of returning to a balanced budget - ever. Canada's federal debt for the 2023-24 fiscal year is projected to reach $1.22 trillion. That is nearly $81,000 per household in Canada. The cost of servicing Canada's enormous debt continues to grow. The cost to service Canada's debt this year (2023-2024) is projected to be $43.9 billion. This is nearly double the costs in 2021-2022, when debt servicing costs were $24.5 billion.

Canadians need a responsible government to lower the cost of living, lower taxes and keep more money in your pocket. The money you work for is yours - it's not for the government to decide where your money goes.

Trash to Treasure Days encourage residents to put any usable items out prior to the Heavy Item Garbage collection so others can pick them up and give them a new home.

Donators:

- Mark your unwanted but reusable items with an HIG tag and place at same location you would place items for HIG collection.
- At the end of the Trash to Treasure Days remove any items you want to keep
- Leave items out that you want collected during HIG week
